PLANO, Texas – August 11, 2014 – Akorbi, a world-wide provider of multilingual business solutions, has selected Plunet BusinessManager, the leading management solution for the translation and localization industry, as its new web-based platform for business process and translation management. The highly automated and flexible software will allow Akorbi to increase productivity, an estimated 30%, by managing the flow of diverse and complex translation projects, from quotation to delivery, with a single solution. This enterprise solution will also allow the company to better support its global client's high volume, security and critical information needs.

Akorbi's clients will benefit from easy remote login, 24/7, through an integrated portal for translation requests that allows them to submit requests for quotes, issue orders, track projects, as well as upload and download project files. Clients will also have access to comprehensive reporting and information, cutting-edge security, improved billing processes and automated workflow, among many other things, through the software's robust infrastructure. All activities can be managed seamlessly and securely, from anywhere, with Internet access.

After an extensive evaluation of the solutions available in the market, Akorbi chose Plunet because of its impeccable reputation among translation agencies, as well as the language service departments of enterprises, government agencies and institutions. Plunet BusinessManager is an established and proven software, which is widely used.

"Plunet BusinessManager provides flexible business process and translation management support, not only for our existing needs, but for our company's continuous and long-term growth, said Claudia Mirza, CEO of Akorbi.
